

Photo: Erik Bäckwall

JUNE 9-11, 2025 DALARNA UNIVERSITY, BORLÄNGE CAMPUS

Sustainable working life in practice – research in collaboration

Welcome to the FALF-conference for 2025

The department of Working Life Science at Dalarna University is arranging the conference for the Forum for Working Life Research (FALF), which will be held 9-11 June 2025. The theme revolves around what constitutes a sustainable working life and how research and work in practice can create this together. Central to this theme is identifying current and future challenges and how these can be addressed in order for social, economic and ecological sustainability to be attained. Examples of such challenges are:

- the impact of climate change on work and the work context
- gig work and sustainable working contexts
- how gendered norms and values can be revisited to contribute to more equal, safe and healthy workplaces.

We welcome suggestions for tracks, workshops or special seminars. From February 1 abstracts and poster presentations may be submitted.

Welcome to the FALF Conference 2025!

More information and contact details:

www.du.se/falf, falf2025@du.se

PREPARATIONS

Please submit proposals for conference tracks: 15 November 2024 - 15 January 2025

The basis for the conference tracks is sustainable working life in practice - research in collaboration. There is also an open track for those who want to contribute with abstracts that are not directly connected to the given conference tracks. Tracks involving collaboration between researchers and practitioners are particularly welcome.

Submissions:

1 February - 15 March 2025

THE CONFERENCE

Location: Borlänge Campus

Date: 9-11 June 2025

Registration open:

1 March - 1 May 2025